Introduction

The 2023 Achieving a State of Healthy Weight (ASHW) Annual Report¹ marks the thirteenth update of the comprehensive assessment first initiated in Achieving a Healthy Weight: A National Assessment of Obesity Prevention Terminology in Child Care Regulations 2010.² Each year, the University of Colorado College of Nursing releases the Annual Report, accompanied by three state-specific supplements. These supplements provide detailed data for each state and care type, including Child Care Centers (CTR), Large Family Child Care Homes (LFCCH), and Small Family Child Care Homes (SFCCH). The profiles evaluate how well each state's licensing regulations for early care and education (ECE) programs align with the High-Impact Obesity Prevention Standards (HIOPS).

The ASHW assessment team updates state profiles in collaboration with the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, Division of Nutrition, Physical Activity and Obesity (DNPAO). Since 2019, the following changes have been made to the state profile pages:

- State profiles are one-page tables that indicate ratings for all 47 ASHW HIOPS.
- The HIOPS are categorized into four sections: Infant Feeding, Nutrition, Physical Activity, and Screen Time Limits.
- For each HIOPS, rating values are provided for 2010 and the current year. The numerical ratings are color-coded (see the Guide page for details).

In instances where a state does not regulate a specific child care type, a rating of "0" is presented for those HIOPS in the state profile table.

History of ASHW

The evolution of ASHW dates back to the standards outlined in Caring for Our Children: National Health and Safety Performance Standards; Guidelines for Early Care and Education Programs, 3rd Ed. (CFOC3).³ These standards were specifically drawn from a special collection within CFOC known as Preventing Childhood Obesity in Early Care and Early Education: Selected Standards from Caring for Our Children: National Health and Safety Performance Standards; Guidelines for Early Care and Education Programs, 3rd Edition (PCO).⁴ Spearheaded by the University of Colorado ASHW assessment team, the development of HIOPS involved collaborative efforts with representatives from key federal agencies and national stakeholders vested in children's wellbeing and healthy development (refer to Origin of ASHW High-Impact Obesity Prevention Standards for more details).⁵

Helpful Resources

- CDC's Priority Obesity Strategy for Early Care and Education outlines strategies aimed at enhancing nutrition, physical activity, breastfeeding, and screen time for ECE settings, including child care licensing
- High-Impact Obesity Prevention Standards \(HIOPS\) for Early Care and Education: Learn more about the science-based HIOPS and discover how they can support child care licensing regulations

How To Use the ASHW 2023 State Supplement

Public health practitioners, licensing officials, and child care providers can adopt science-based obesity prevention standards into statewide Early Care and Education (ECE) systems. These standards are known as High-Impact Obesity Prevention Standards \(HIOPS\). By implementing HIOPS, states can encourage healthy habits early in life among our youngest children.

In each state profile, the level of support for the 47 High-Impact Obesity Prevention Standards (HIOPS) in child care regulations is depicted by care type. For example, this state supplement presents the latest ASHW ratings for Small Family Child Care Homes. This document also includes two appendices: one detailing the assessment years for each state and another listing the documents assessed in each state.

Policy makers and licensing agencies may use the state profile pages to:

1. Identify strengths and areas for improvement to guide the implementation of new and revised child care licensing regulations.
2. Review other states' profiles to identify those achieving full alignment with the HIOPS, supporting childhood obesity prevention in ECE programs.
3. Compare ratings across different licensed child care types in a state, identifying opportunities to strengthen standards across care types.
4. Incorporate language for each HIOPS to better align ECE policies and practices with science-based obesity prevention standards.

A Guide to Understanding the ASHW State Supplement Profile Pages

The state profiles below present the ASHW results for each state through 2023. Each profile outlines the level of support for the 47 High-Impact Obesity Prevention Standards (HIOPS) within the state's child care regulations, categorized by care type. If a state regulates a specific care type through multiple documents, the highest rating among these documents is used (refer to ASHW 2010). An annotated illustration is provided to explain the layout and features of each state profile. Please note that the ratings in this supplement reflect child care center regulations effective through December 31, 2023.

State Documents Rated in 2023 for Achieving a State of Healthy Weight (ASHW)

Documents rated in 2023 are presented below, with a comprehensive list of all documents rated since 2010 available here.³⁸ The ASHW assessment team works diligently to identify new and revised documents through website searches, emails, and calls to state licensing agencies. However, some regulations may go undiscovered in their effective year. In such cases, the study team will screen and rate these documents for inclusion in the ASHW report for the year they are discovered. If state licensing personnel are aware of any missed documents, please inform the assessment team at healthyweight@cuanschultz.edu.
