

The Role of Non-Profit Organizations in Support Networks for Small Enterprises

A. Tien¹, M. O'Reilly^{1,2}, M.-C. A. Goddard³, A.
Langeland⁴, S. K. Saylor⁴, R. Neitzel⁴, E. Zellers⁴

¹ WHWB-US, Ann Arbor, Michigan USA

² WHWB, Ontario, Canada

³ UMIHSA, University of Michigan, School of Public Health, Ann Arbor, Michigan USA

⁴ University of Michigan, Environmental Health Sciences, Ann Arbor, Michigan USA

“Dedicated to ensuring healthy working conditions for workers everywhere”

Table of contents

Nonprofit organizations

Small enterprises

Approach

Case studies

Recommendations

Who we are

A 501(c)(3) registered nonprofit

Non-profits a resource to small enterprises

- Workplace Health
- Engagement and Prevention
- Underserved Worker Populations
- Development

A 501(c)(3) registered nonprofit

Small enterprises are resource limited

Influencers for OHS performance:

01

Ownership
type

02

Means for Worker
acquisition

03

Openness to access external resources

04

Concern for OHS
risks

05

Desire to understand Legal issues

Approach

Types of assistance

- Advocacy
- Grants
- Projects
- Turntable
- Collaboration

Case Studies

Recommendations to Small Enterprises

Recommendations for Small Enterprises

- Lead by example
- Empower frontline employees for safety
- Invest in OHS training and awareness building
- Establish a rewards and recognition program
- Implement a system to manage risks

Recommendations to Non-profits

Recommendations to Non-profits

- Research situation
- Clearly define scope
- Know your partners
- Know your limitations

We would like to thank WHWB International, WHWB-US ,our colleagues at the University of Michigan Center for Occupational Health Safety and Engineering, Student Chapter of WHWB-US at University of Michigan, and the organizers of USE 2017